Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE
Three or four Fayette County motorists and at least half a dozen in Washington C. H. have been urging me to push some kind of a campaign to make everybody eliminate the broken glass menace on streets, alleys and along public highways.

Maybe it is the perversion of circumstances - or of unrestrained boyhood and no small amount of unrestrained carelessness on the part of a good many men, but it does seem that now in this emergency during the rubber shortage, that there is more broken glass in streets, in alleys and on the public highways than most of us noticed before.

City street cleaners, aided by people who are interested and helpful do their best apparently to clean up broken bottles and the like, but according to one nervous Fayette County motorist, he sees more glinting fragments along streets and roads than ever before. Some who do not see these reflections are otherwise made painfully aware of them by that chill feeling of "a down tire."

Of course we have received many indignant suggestions for correction of this condition, some of them sensible and some just plain silly, and of course we could talk about police getting after these glass-breakers, we could exhort and reproach parents, youngsters could be paddled and a few other such things could be said and done, but usually this, like many similar little problems, probably will lie filed under the general heading of "something should be done about this." Anyway we can cut down a lot of this trouble if each family will just apply the Golden Rule and not only try to prevent such things as broken glass and loose nails lying around its own premises, but also would help by little kindly suggestions to keep others in their neighborhoods from permitting this condition.

I had heard that an old tabby cat owned by Homer Wolfe, of the Chillicothe highway, is mothering a white collie puppy that Homer recently obtained from Frank Carr, and the old cat seems to be doing an excellent job of it. I asked Homer about it, and he gave me the dope.

The protesting pup is given his bath each day, along with the four kittens which are his companions, and he shares the accommodations at "lunch" time. His bath (I mean the pup) is given by the mother cat licking him thoroughly, and because he is not fond of having his face, neck and ears scrubbed in this manner, the old cat seizes him firmly in her paws and holds him tight while she bathes him.

While I was chatting with Homer I asked him about his record in the U. S. armed forces, and learned that he served three years in the U. S. Navy, being assigned to submarine and sub-chaser duty, and was also in the U. S. Army for several months, receiving an underage discharge from the latter and was also honorably discharged from the Navy service.

Homer spent over a year at Pearl Harbor and in the Philippines, including sometime at Cavite (pronounced Ca-vee-tee, with the accent on the middle syllable) in Manila Bay.

Homer saw some service on the illstarred S-4 submarine that capsized some three years ago, and trapped nearly all aboard. He held the rank of First Class Mate while in the Navy.

Perhaps it is a long way from a cat mothering a puppy to Homer's service in the U. S. Navy, but somehow or other the two yarns seemed to go together for this column.

U. S. FARM BELT ALSO PRODUCES WAR MACHINERY

Farms Are 'Left in One Hell Of a Situation'—But People Here 'Born Americans'

By ROY P. PORTER
(Wide World News Service)
Imagine, if you can, an airplane engine factory somewhere in the midwest, so large that under its roof:

All sixteen major league baseball teams could pay eight simultaneous games before crowds of 30,000 each.

And there would still be room enough left over for a full-sized football game before an additional 30,000 spectators.

That is just one of the war plants that I saw during the "production for victory" tour of war industries in 21 different cities recently.

Even that engine factory is exceeded by Henry Ford's new Willow Run bomber plant which army censors have allowed to be described as covering 37 acres or more than 1,500,000 square feet.

Then remember that there are several former peacetime industries, now engaged exclusively in war production, whose payrolls will total before the end of 1942 more than 100,000 persons each—bigger for example than Canton, O.

That will give you an idea of just how big this war production industry really is—in the big figures, without taking into consideration the thousands upon thousands of smaller plants whose principal job is to supply parts and accessories that will "keep 'em rolling" and "keep 'em flying."

"It is the biggest thing we (the United States) have ever undertaken," commented President K. T. Keller of the Chrysler Corporation. "It is so big that we cannot measure it—and it gets bigger every day."

"We are ready to make a million of anything."

We all know what this is planned to do to the Axis, despite the years of rearmament which Germany built its powerful military machine. We are just beginning to roll out tanks, planes, guns, submarines, freighters and all the other necessary war materials that will give Adolf and Benito and Hirohito the final shove toward defeat.

But what has it done to the people of the United States?

In one Connecticut city, site of an important aviation plant, it takes two weeks to get a suit pressed—and not less than a month for cleaning.

In Detroit, we found one Negro boy, 18 years old, who was performing a single-purpose operation on a machine in a former automobile factory. His

Petain Thinks Axis Can't Win

By WADE WERNER
WASHINGTON, June 10.—(P) Two years of war since Dunkerque have convinced Chief of State Marshal Petain that the Axis cannot win, authoritative reports from Vichy revealed today.

There was a time after the fall of France in 1940 when Petain regarded a German victory as inevitable; but now, these reports said, the old marshal is convinced Germany and her allies will be defeated.

Vichy's collaborationist chief of government, Pierre Laval, however, still holds the contrary view. An American observer who recently talked with him quoted Laval as saying Germany could not be defeated and, moreover, that it would be a disaster for Europe if England and Soviet Russia won.

Reliable informants in Vichy report that Admiral Jean Darlan, chief of the Vichy government's armed forces, holds a somewhat similar opinion.

Sources in close touch with developments around Petain pictured the aged chief of state as a patriot surrounded by intrigues and exposed to pressure from German authorities, yet laboring to protect the integrity of France.

The French people are fully aware of the tragic handicap under which Petain is striving to relieve their suffering, this informant said. They know that Petain was forced by the Germans to accept Laval as his chief of government, possibly by threatening to occupy all of France.

German pressure is reported to involve many other threats of dire consequences for the French if they fail to collaborate. These include even threats of reprisals against French prisoners of war in Germany. Some Frenchmen fear particularly the possibility that these 1,500,000 prisoners in German hands might be maltreated or starved.

There are limits to what the Axis could accomplish by such pressure, however. As outlined in authoritative reports received here these limits are Hitler's reluctance to undertake a complete occupation of France, with the vast increase in troops of occupation such a move would make necessary; and Hitler's equal reluctance to provoke revolution in France at the very time he hopes to squeeze the utmost in war production out of French workers.

Thus, although it would be an

Nazis Have Transportation Headache in Russia

This picture was taken in the northern part of Russia near Leningrad. A German driver with a load of supplies is having transportation difficulty as the horses wade through ice-covered water. Latest reports from the Russian front indicate that the Nazis had suffered heavy losses in a sustained three-day attack on Sevastopol, Crimean stronghold, without making headway.

Old Rubber To Be Collected As Synthetic Plans Studied

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(P) Poinsettias and old hot water bags may march through the second chapter of the mystery novel about rubber and gasoline of which President Roosevelt says he has read only the first.

The President announced at his press conference yesterday that a nationwide two-week collection of scrap rubber—old inner tubes, tires, hot water bottles, etc.—would be undertaken soon in an effort to determine whether there was enough old rubber lying around to make national curbs on automobile driving unnecessary.

No one knows just how much reclaimable scrap is available, he said, and the only way to find out is to gather it all up. Until then, he indicated, there will be no nationwide gasoline rationing as a tire-saving measure.

The President likened the gasoline-rubber situation to a mystery novel, and said he did not know how it would end.

The poinsettia plant, familiar scarlet and yellow Christmas decoration, was put forth as a likely source of rubber by a Californian, who wrote Senator Norris

VICTORY CLAIMS NOT MADE BY JAPS THIS TIME

Nips Given Fantastic Tale Of U. S. Ships Sunk by Warlords, However

By RODGER D. GREENE
(By the Associated Press)
Imperial Tokyo headquarters sought to minimize the gravity of the Japanese naval disaster at Midway today but acknowledged that United States forces had sunk an aircraft carrier, heavily damaged another carrier and damaged a cruiser.

Official United States reports have listed 16 and possibly 18 Japanese warships sunk or damaged before the enemy fleet limped off in retreat.

Moreover, an eye-witness account by Ensign George H. Gay, Jr., 25-year-old U. S. Navy flier, declared three of Japan's aircraft carriers, including two of the 26,900-ton Kaga-Akagi class, were seen to burst into flames under attack by American torpedo planes. Tokyo did not specify the class of the carrier it admitted lost.

Tokyo headquarters also reported that Japanese army troops were used in attacking the U. S.-owned Aleutian Islands off Alaska on Sunday, Tokyo time, (Saturday, Alaska time)—three days after the Dutch Harbor raids—and declared they "are continuing operations in this area."

"In the area of Dutch Harbor 14 enemy planes were brought down or destroyed and a large enemy transport was sunk," Imperial headquarters declared.

"Japanese units furthermore bombed groups of large oil tanks in two places and set them on fire, as well as one large hangar."

While operations were reported continuing in the Aleutians, the communique implied that the Midway action was over. The Japanese people were told by the warlords that two United States aircraft carriers and a large transport had been sunk.

(The Navy has reported only one U. S. vessel sunk in the Pacific fighting last week, this a destroyer torpedoed by a submarine, and an aircraft carrier damaged. The toll on the Japanese fleet was officially listed at two or three aircraft carriers and a destroyer sunk and from 13 to 15 other vessels, including three battleships, damaged.)

The Japanese account, indicating that the action at Midway was only a quickly-ended naval bombardment, apparently leaves a glaring gap. United States communique have pointed out that a line of transports was along with the strong Japanese armada and these ships would have been present only if a landing operation were intended.

Although nothing on the battle had appeared until today in Japan's own propaganda channels, the Berlin radio broadcast

FIVE INDICTED FOR AXIS PLOT

Bund and Fascist Leaders Accused of Conspiracy To Aid Enemies

HARTFORD, Conn., June 10.—(P) A federal grand jury today indicted Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, National German-American Bund leader; Anastase Vonsiaty, head of the All-Russian Fascist Party, and three others on a charge of conspiracy to violate the 1917 Espionage Act by furnishing military and defense information to Germany and Japan.

Indicted with these two by the grand jury, which has been sitting since May 14, were Dr. Otto Willumeit, head of the Chicago Division of the German-American Bund; Dr. Wolfgang Ebell, El Paso, Tex., physician now in internment as an enemy alien, and the Rev. Kurt B. Molzahn, Philadelphia clergyman.

The jury charged that, from January, 1941, until last December 6, these five conspired to collect and deliver to the German and Japanese governments information "relating to the numbers, personnel, disposition, equipment, arms and morale of the army of the United States, the location, size, capacity . . . and other features of the United States fleet, the location, size, equipment and other features of military establishments, naval establishments, airports, aircraft, shipping and other establishments . . . essential to the national defense of the United States."

Axis Admits Attacks in Libya Repulsed—British Use U. S. Equipment

(By The Associated Press)
Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted today that German troops had stormed deeper into the fortifications of Sevastopol, last Soviet stronghold in the Crimea, while the Russians said they had littered the battlefield with 2,500 Nazi dead in yesterday's fighting alone.

Soviet dispatches said the Red armies had not yielded "a single line" to the Germans although the fight was growing hourly more intense, with the Nazis incessantly attacking by land and air.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, conceded that German infantry had penetrated to a hilly sector, where it was trying to capture two heights, but declared that the battle generally still raged at the approaches to the city without major change.

Today marked the sixth day of furious assault by German forces which have besieged the great Black Sea naval base for more than seven months.

A Soviet communique said Sevastopol's defense batteries scattered a German infantry regiment, killed many of its men, knocked out two dozen German tanks and 26 planes, and checked the Nazi offensive.

War in China
In China, fighting 12 miles west of the fiercely defended walled town of Chusien was reported today by the high command, indicating that the Japanese had made some progress in their drive to close the 180-mile gap between their forces in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces.

Fighting continued in Kiangsi province southeast of Nanchang, at the western end of the contested gap. The Chinese reported, however, that they captured several more positions in the Nanchang area in attacks intended to divert the Japanese.

The high command said Chinese defense forces frustrated an attempt by "six enemy cruisers" to land Japanese troops on the shore of Poyang Lake northeast of Nanchang.

War in Africa
On the North African front, both the German and Italian communique acknowledged that Lieut.-Gen. Neil Ritchie's armies, supported by American-made tanks and planes, were heavily counter-attacking.

Patriotism Dangerous in Norway

Nazis Not Only Bleed Country To Enrich Themselves and Build Up Their War Machines but They Execute Those Who Defy Them—Traitorous Norwegians Do Hitler's Bidding

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Louis P. Lochner, chief of the former Associated Press and Wide World News Service Bureau in Berlin, turns the spotlight on occupied Norway in this eighth of a daily series for the Record-Herald since his return from internment in Germany.)

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Wide World News Service)
To be a patriot in Norway nowadays means martyrdom.

There is virtual civil war in the German-occupied country, and the Quislings not only hold all the jobs but also have the protection of the Nazi Gestapo.

Nevertheless, the patriots continue to stand by their guns. Story after story of personal courage, of passive resistance to Quisling stooges, of manly facing of firing squads trickled into Germany from Norway.

Executions are the order of the day for helping others to make a getaway to England, or even for young Norwegians themselves attempting to escape to Britain.

One electrician and one attorney were executed for "participation" in helping others to escape.

GRANGE PLANS FOR EXHIBIT AT FAYETTE FAIR

Two Very Important Questions Are Discussed at Session Held

At the June meeting of Selden Grange, held at the Corner School house, Tuesday evening with worthy Master, Milford Barker presiding, the Grange Fair exhibit was discussed, and the names of the various committees were read.

Ray Brandenburg told about the pageant "Parade of America" which will be put on as the evening's entertainment Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the Fair. He stated that the cast would consist of about 300 people, and that except the director, all would be local people. It is expected that the different episodes of the pageant will be assigned to various organizations of the county, including the Grange.

The Grange voted $5 to help maintain the lawn and shrubbery of the Corner School during the summer. Also voted an appropriation to purchase soft ball equipment for the Selden ball team.

For the literary program, the lecturer had arranged a panel discussion to be led by Ralph Nisley. Although time was limited, a very interesting and thought provoking discussion resulted.

The first question considered was "What are we fighting for in this war?" The discussion was opened by Ray Brandenburg with a very able and logical presentation of the subject. Majority opinion seemed to be that, as far as this country was concerned, the war was being waged to preserve our American ideals of freedom of worship, of speech, of the press and of individual initiative.

"The American ideals and way of life," was defined by Robert Case, in a little more detail as including the four freedoms.

"In our industrial economy, what is meant by 'Free Enterprise' was discussed by W. W. Montgomery. Has statement that 'free enterprise' was of an evolutionary nature and would probably be different in the future from what it had been in the past, brought out considerable debate that was enlightening and entertaining.

Others taking part in the discussions were: Mrs. Nellie Case, W. E. Sollars, Milford Barker, Carleton Belt and Maurice Sollars.

Refreshments were served by the committee. The refreshment committee for the July meeting will be: Mr. and Mrs. Homer Morrow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Morris, Mrs. Alma Deer, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Case, Mr. and Mrs. Orla Pollard, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Purcell and Paul.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOHN KINGERY

Rev. Gordon paid a personal tribute to Mr. Kingery, and read a beautiful memoir. There were many lovely floral gifts.

The pallbearers were: John, Joseph, Elmer and Roy Kingery, Eber Allen and Richard Armstrong.

GYPSIES AGAIN VISIT COUNTY; TRY ROBBERIES

Believed To Have Been Same Gang Operating Here Before

Two Gypsy women tried to rob William Miller at Cozy Corner, four miles east of Jeffersonville Tuesday, but failed to obtain any money, and later in the day the same gang is believed to have robbed Chris Eby, 80, of near Eaton, of $120 and several government bonds, according to information patched together at the office of Sheriff W. H. Icen-hower.

Prior to the attempted robbery in Fayette County they are alleged to have robbed a Madison County resident of some money, while working the old racket of telling fortunes.

At the William Miller home two women left an automobile in which two men were, also riding.

At the Miller home one tried to enter the house, but was thwarted by Mrs. Miller, who hurried inside and fastened the screen door.

Miller, on the veranda, was accosted by the other woman, who endeavored to rifle the pocket of his shirt, and while she succeeded in tearing the button from the flap of one pocket, she failed to obtain any money. Both were ordered to leave.

No report was made of the affair to the officials until afterward.

At Eaton one of the women and two men detained Eby on the veranda and robbed him, while the other entered the house by a window and obtained the bonds.

The Gypsies are believed to be the same ones who have operated along the Prairie road two or three times in recent years, and who two years ago robbed a man here of several hundred dollars after knocking him down on North Street.

Citizens generally are wondering how the gang has escaped officials, and particularly the Highway Patrol, for so many years, after such a long series of crimes.

Dairymen Beat Grangers After Fast Softball Game

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

(Wide World News Service)
NEW YORK, June 10.—If the All Service vs. All Stars ball game at Cleveland next month doesn't shatter the Municipal Stadium record of 80,000 attendance, Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, USN, will be sadly disappointed. . . . And so will a lot of others. . . . Mickey reported the other day that the soldiers and sailors and marines weren't expecting to lose to the big leaguers and he hinted the search for good players might even go so far as to bring Mickey Harris, the former Red Sox fliker, back from the Canal Zone.

Mud Hens Break Losing Streak Beating Brewers

(By The Associated Press)
It was a night for stopping long-sustained losing streaks in the American Association last night. St. Paul's Saints dropped their 15th straight contest, 1-0, in the first of a double bill with Louisville, and then snapped out of it to take the nightcap at St. Paul 4-2.
At Milwaukee, the Toledo Mud Hens ran their straight losses to 11 in a 3-0 curtain raiser, then staged an uprising to get back in the win column, 13-1.
Minneapolis further improved its third place spot behind Milwaukee by taking two seven-inning games from Indianapolis, 3-0 and 7-4.
League-leading Kansas City was idle at home, a scheduled double-header with Columbus being postponed.

Schmeling To Fight Neusel In Defense of European Ring Crown

ROME (from Italian broadcasts), June 10.—(P)—Max Schmeling, onetime heavy weight champion of the world will defend his European title in September against Walter Neusel, the German delegate to the association of European professional pugilists, has announced.
The September bout will be Schmeling's first since the battle of Crete in which he participated as a parachute soldier and was wounded.

New Speed Record Set For Five-Inning Game

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(P)—There's no telling where this wartime speed-up of baseball will end.
The Charleston Rebels and Jacksonville Tars played five innings in 37 minutes. Had they played out the game at the same pace, pressbox observers figured nine innings would have been completed in one hour and five minutes.

CATHOLICS LOSE TO METHODISTS IN OTHER TILT

Slugging Marks Second Pair Of Games on League Schedule

The second night of softball here swung into action at Wilson Field Tuesday promptly at 7 P. M. with two Church League teams, Methodist and St. Colman's battling for the winner's honors. The final score at the end of 7 full innings of play, stood: Methodist-18 and St. Colman's-6.
Gage, first up for the Methodists, started the game off right with a home run and before the frame ended the Methodists got four runs on 3 hits. St. Colman's in their half, got 4 singles, but none of them ever crossed home plate. In the second, the Methodists started a rally and brought in a total of 6 runs and 6 hits.
The fourth brought some changes for both teams. Mark started off with a home run, the third of the evening, and St. Colman's two singles and a double sent in two runs.
Mark was the top hitter of the evening with a homer, triple, double and single.

Dairymen Win
Light's Dairy won from the Selden Grange by a score of 8-6. However, it looked as if the Grangers would forge ahead for a few minutes during the sixth inning. Selden led during the first two innings by a score of 2-0 but in the third, the Dairymen picked up and scored 3 runs. In the fourth they scored 5 more on Selden's errors to lead 8 to 2. However, in the sixth, the Grangers started a big rally and scored 4 runs before they were finally stopped.
One game will be played Wednesday night at 8:30 P. M. in the Industrial League with Albers and Forest Shade Grange taking the field.
From now on, Church League teams will play only on Monday and Wednesday nights. The others will have only one game. There will only be one game Thursday night, it being in the Industrial League with Cudahy's vs. Madison Mills Grange.

Reds Crowded For No. 3 Spot As Giants Win

CINCINNATI, June 10.—(P)—Pushed out of third place Sunday, the New York Giants have a chance to tie the Cincinnati for that spot by beating the Reds here tonight in the finale of a two-game series.
Southpaw Johnny Vander Meer after his seventh victory against three defeats, is Cincinnati's mound nominee. Hal Schumacher is the Giant probable.

The Reds' longest victory streak since last September ended at six yesterday when the Giants beat them 3-1.

TWO-HIT GAME LOST BY SMITH ON BAD BREAKS

White Sox Drop to Cellar As Athletics Profit by Hurler's Hard Luck

(By The Associated Press)
Special "days" for ball players have been frowned upon in the major leagues this year because of the war, but in the spirit of fair play the American League should quickly set aside an "Ed Smith Day" and instead of presenting him a rawhide suitcase give him a non-disappearing victory.

The stout, blond southpaw, one of the league's leading pitchers last year, has lost ten games this season without winning one and last night at Philadelphia he bumped into the most baffling setback of all.

He held the Athletics to two hits and yet was beaten 2-0 as the Chicago White Sox slumped into last place in the standings. One run trickled across on a double play. The other came on a bad throw.

Yanks Beat Tigers
The New York Yankees contributed another change to the American League standings by beating Detroit 4-1 and knocking the Tigers out of second place. Rookie Hank Borowy pitched four-hit ball to achieve his fourth consecutive victory and Joe Gordon extended his hitting streak to 26 games while Buddy Hassett's string was halted at 20 games by Paul (Dizzy) Trout.

The Boston Red Sox took advantage of the opportunity to move ahead of Detroit with a 7-4 triumph over the rugged St. Louis Browns.

Five Washington errors, two of them by a rookie second baseman named Ellis Cleary brought up last week from Chattanooga, helped the Cleveland Indians gain a 7-6 decision against the Senators in a 10-inning night game at the capital.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' night game at St. Louis, was postponed until tomorrow night, limiting National League activity to two games.

At Cincinnati each team was held to five hits but the New York Giants curbed the Reds 3-1.

BASS FISHING SEASON OPENS IN STREAMS HERE TUESDAY

Fishermen in Fayette County are looking forward to the opening of the bass season in less than a week. The opening date, set by law, is Tuesday, June 16. Many ardent "Isaac Waltons" from Fayette County will be on the banks of the streams before sun-up here and in neighboring counties and they are urged to take precautions while engaging in their favorite sport.
When the weather's right and the fishing's good, the best is done by anglers who pay some attention to the common-sense rules of fishing safety. Here are a few suggestions to follow when fishing:

Top Golfers To Assemble At Inverness

By FRITZ HOWELL
TOLEDO, June 10.—(P)—The eighth annual Inverness four-ball matches—the golf pro's paradise—gets under way Thursday with 16 of the country's top-notch club-swingers splitting up $7,650 for four days of play.
Each of the entrants is guaranteed a share of the big purse. Even the last placers will get $43.75 per day, and The Inverness Club also pays the hotel and board bills, along with other incidentals, so it's all profit for the pro's.
The 16 talented troupers are paired into eight teams, with each two-some meeting every other over the 18-hole best ball route. Each match goes the full 18 holes, and the winning two-some is given a "plus" equal to the number of holes it is ahead, while the losing pair gets a corresponding "minus."

BASEBALL HEADACHES

Organized baseball so far as the American League is concerned, has found a worse enemy than the war. This enemy is located on American soil, consisting of the New York Yankees. Last year they won the American League pennant by a 17-game margin, and took four games out of five in the world's series. That makes five years out of the last six in which they have won the American League championship, and in each of those years they carried off the honors in the world's series. This year, with the season less than a third gone, they have a good lead, and apparently are going to coast in.

It is not merely monotonous, it is boring to the customers. Only when the Yankees come to town are the stands full. When the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox played a much publicized game for the benefit of the navy, less than 8,000 persons turned out. Other cities make like reports. With the pennant race practically settled, the fans think there is nothing interesting left to fight for.

The National League is less troubled. The minor leagues each stand, or fail to stand, on their own feet. Theoretically it should make no difference to them what happens in the American League. But when such a prominent organization suffers from the overdevelopment of one team, the whole game suffers.

THE NEED FOR NURSES

It takes a young woman with a strong physique, a poised mentality, a willingness to perform any duty necessary and take whatsoever comes, to make a good army nurse. It takes training, too; but given the first qualifications of good steel, hospital discipline will temper and polish the tool.

It takes high qualifications to make a good soldier, too, but the discipline of the army camp turns basic abilities into strong powers, ready to use.

Many young women, with other careers in mind as first or second choices, will be going into nursing this year and next. They will find that in the long run they lose nothing. Nursing experience and training will deepen and strengthen whatever powers they had to start with. After the war, they can enter the postponed careers and make a success of them, just as the boys will do. They will be bigger and more adequate people, starting in their chosen fields, than if they had entered those fields a few years before. Time lost will soon be regained.

If they choose to remain in nursing, they will have a competence over and above that of the girls who have known that field only in easier times. As wives and mothers of families, they will find their duties easier.

The need at the present time is very great. Graduates of schools and colleges this June should take it seriously.

The high school girl who can plan an evening of games and serve simple refreshments to her school friends in her home, is learning to be a gracious hostess. Parents should encourage their children to bring their friends home and entertain them there—within reason, of course.

Today's Horoscope

Those who have birthdays today should exercise tact, caution and sound planning in their field of endeavor, instead of blundering force, if they hope to gain success. They are over-sensitive, easily hurt, and often inconsiderate of others. Happy domestic and or love affairs and friends will be much to the fore this year, and will occasion unexpected pleasant surprises and benefits. Be on guard against deception in business. Cultured, refined, inventive and very fond and exceptionally gifted in the arts will be the child born today. Success in aviation or radio is foreseen.

One-Minute Test Answers

2. General Accounting Office.
3. Benjamin Harrison.

In the attack on London Dec. 29, 1940, about 6,000,000 volumes were destroyed; and there have been other damaging raids with bindery fires galore.

Government priorities have taken much of the available stock of paper, already short enough. A best-seller can be produced only by the labor of several plants working at the same time, while others never get published. But one and one quarter percent of the total available supply of paper is allotted to books.

Books are needed now as they never have been before, with other amusements stopped by the nightly blackout. Every day and night thousands of air raid wardens, fire guards, ambulance crews and the like are on duty, with a spare hour to be occupied when routine is done and no enemy is overhead. Troops on lonely stations have their evenings to while away. To all of these, books are a crying need, whether for instruction or recreation.

One story tells it all. Lately a small-town English bookseller sent a London publisher an order for 1,000 assorted novels—any novels whatsoever. The publisher could let him have 150 and no more.

This country is not yet reduced to England's shortage, but the need here is also great.

According to our observation everyone knows better how a house should be remodeled than the man who owns it.

Research May Find Hope for High Blood Pressure Cases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I AM IN receipt of a little book, one of a series published called Help Your Doctor To Help You When You Have High Blood Pressure. It discusses in a helpful and sensible way such subjects as what causes high blood pressure, the symptoms of high blood pressure,

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

What is normal blood pressure and treatment. Under causes of high blood pressure a great emphasis is put on heredity, although this operates in quite a hit and miss fashion.

May Be Permanent

One sensible paragraph begins: "Patients with hypertension often keep going from doctor to doctor asking for some treatment that will knock the pressure down, but it is doubtful if they ever get much benefit from the drugs that are taken, because even when the pressure is lowered for a while, it usually soon goes back up to where it was before. The point to be remembered is that if one has high blood pressure of the essential type one is likely to have it for all one's days."

In reviewing the subject of high blood pressure recently I found that surprisingly enough nobody knew the incidence of high blood pressure. By this I mean nobody has ever recorded how many people at the age of 50, for instance, have a blood pressure of over 150. There was plenty of work to show what the average blood pressure of a group of people at the age of 50 was, but not the incidence of hypertension.

The only information we have is the report of the insurance companies which did not represent a cross section of the entire population because insurance applicants obviously are people who think themselves in good health. In order to supplement this, with the help of some of my doctor friends I gathered together about 2000 records of people at all ages, most of whom were sick enough to consult a doctor.

We took the figure of 150—systolic blood pressure—as being the upper limit of normal. We found that over 40 per cent of people aged from 50 to 54 had a blood pressure of 150 or over. This would indicate that high blood pressure is a physiologic rather than a diseased condition—simply a part of the aging process.

This would also indicate that drastic measures to reduce blood pressure are not likely to have much success. The treatment recommended in this little book consists of general measures for reducing the pressure of life, particularly getting plenty of rest and plenty of sleep. The diet recommended is liberal, including everything from meat to starches. Drugs are not advised except in special cases.

Future Prospects

The last paragraph is called "Is There Any Hope on the Horizon for Persons with Hypertension?" The belief is expressed that from the amount of research work which is now being done, in the near future some method will be found effective in lowering pressure and preventing the high blood pressure of middle age. "Sufferers with hypertension must not, then, get too discouraged, but must cling to hope."

P. R. G.: A 17-year-old girl wants to have her nose remodeled. Is such an operation dangerous? Are pills or tablets given to one who lacks thyroidin? I was under the impression that the hormone taken orally would be destroyed by the digestive juices before the drug entered the blood stream.

Answer: There is no reason why a remodeling operation on the nose should cause any permanent trouble. The proportion of success in such operations is very high among skillful operators. Thyroxin is one of the few hormones that can be taken by mouth and is not destroyed by the digestive juices.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

"IT IS NOTHING short of a miracle," Marg said, as had Tommy, to Tibby when she came to see her in the hospital. Marg's plain face was alight, as Tommy's had been, at her joy that her friend was alive and, as she expressed it, "all in one piece." "You might have been burned to death, darling—it makes me shudder just to think of it! You must have had a rabbit's foot with you, honey, or the like. Anyway, you're here—all in one piece—and that is all that matters."

Tommy had said that, too—that that was all that mattered; everyone was saying that to Tibby. She did not feel that way. She was thankful, of course, that she had escaped severe injury, or even a horrible death. She would have been a very foolish girl, had she not realized that this had indeed been a miracle, but she was troubled about the silver ship, the beautiful silver ship that was no more, that would never fly again. If only she could have saved it.

"You're not to worry about the plane," Marg said, as did everyone else in talking with Tibby. Everyone seemed to sense that she was worrying about it a great deal. "Wayne Courtwright surely has it covered with insurance. Even if he hasn't, he will be so thankful that you are safe that it won't make any difference. What's an old ship, darling, compared with you?"

Tibby knew that Marg was endeavoring to cheer her up, so she managed a faint smile, but she was not cheered, not in respect to the ship. It had not been an old one, but a very expensive one, a ship that could not be replaced now with the country at war, thus making its loss even more momentous.

Tibby did not know whether Wayne carried insurance on the ship or not. He still was out of town, for which she was thankful. Maybe she ought to be ashamed to feel that way, but she could not help it. She dreaded to think of his return, not just because of the silver ship, but because of the other things that she must tell him. Of course, she would have to tell Wayne about that other miracle. It would not be fair to tell him, for she could not marry Wayne now that her heart had spoken.

Neither Marg nor anyone else knew about that, and so they naturally thought that it was only the silver ship that Tibby was troubled about, which was why they kept trying to reassure her that its loss, though serious, was not so important.

"You'll be out of here in a few days," Marg was saying, still keeping up that cheerful front. "You'll be as good as new, except for that bandage you will have to tote around for awhile. And you look so interesting, darling! Now if it had been me, instead of you, I'd probably have a couple of broken legs, so I couldn't get around, and my poor old mug all cut up to make me more attractive, or at least my front teeth knocked out. You must have had TWO rabbit's feet, darling!"

Tibby managed a better smile this time, for Marg was a dear to try so hard to put a cheerful front on everything. Poor, darling Marg, whose own heart was anything but light and cheerful; she had received the tragic news that Captain Mercer had been among those brave men who had put up such a gallant fight at Pearl Harbor. Captain John Mercer had been one of the country's first war heroes. He was credited with having shot down two Jap planes and probably crippling several others. He had conducted himself with outstanding bravery and valor. His name would go down in history. Marg's John had made the supreme sacrifice—he had given his life that democracy and freedom might live.

Marg had not shed any tears; she had not grieved. She had accepted this news with quiet dignity. She said that she knew that was the way John would have wanted to go. She did not think of him as dead. "I know," she told Tibby, "that he has his wings now, for always." The wings of the spirit of which he had spoken.

"I have decided to go back to nursing," Marg told Tibby now. "They say they need nurses and will be needing them badly. I said all along that that was what I would do if we got into this war. I'm glad that I'm needed, that there is something I can do."

Tibby knew how Marg felt, in service to her country she could lose her own sorrow. She said, "I think that's fine, if it's what you want to do, Marg, only I hope you won't have to go somewhere right away. I hope you'll be here a while—at least until I get out of this hospital!" She knew Marg was not planning on leaving that soon, but Tibby was making an effort to contribute to the cheerful mood her friend contrived to maintain.

"As if I'd leave before that!" Marg's expression was reproachful. "Steen and I are planning a regular celebration to welcome you home, my pet. We may not be able to manage a brass band, but we certainly are going to do our best!"

Tibby said the brass band would not be necessary. It would be enough just to be allowed to return to the apartment. They treated her very well in the hospital—in fact she had never had so much lavish attention—but it was a hospital for all of that.

Marg said, "Do you know, Steena is a different girl! I can't imagine what's come over her! She's that sugar-sweet lately. It may not last, of course—re-formations seldom do."

I always said our Steena had her good points beneath all that beauty. She was wonderful to me when the news came about John. Not one word of sarcasm or the like. She couldn't have been more understanding and sympathetic had she been my own mother."

Tibby did smile at this. Steena in the role of Marg's mother. But she knew what Marg meant, for Tibby had had a visit from Steena, too. They had had a long heart-to-heart talk that had cleared up many things between them. Tibby had been right in thinking that Steena had courage, of her own kind. It had taken courage for Steena to tell Tibby all that she had confessed, that she had used Tommy as a foil, that the engagement between herself and Tommy had only been a part of a campaign, that it was all off and over with.

Tibby had not told Steena about the miracle, but she had thanked her for coming to see her and for all the things that she had said. When Steena had got up to go, Tibby had asked her if she would do something for her. She had not given her reasons. She had just asked it as a simple favor.

Steen had said she would be glad to do anything she could. She had said it almost humbly, eagerly. Tibby slipped the ring off her finger, the magnificent pearl ring, with its surrounding sapphires, that did not belong on her hand, that had never seemed to belong there. "I want you to keep this for me—until I come home," she said. She did not have to give the obvious reasons, that such a ring was out of place in a hospital, even a risk, since it might be misplaced or stolen. Her real reason for asking Steena, instead of anyone else, Tibby kept to herself.

No doubt Steena thought the ring could have been put in the hospital vault, or entrusted to another person, anyone, it would seem, rather than herself. Yet she was pleased that Tibby would entrust it to her. It must mean that everything was all right between them. She accepted the ring, saying she would take care of it until Tibby asked for it again.

But Tibby did not intend to ask for it, ever. She had other intentions in the back of her head. They might work out, and again they might not, but they were worth trying anyway. It was not a campaign that Tibby planned, as Steena had thought, but being feminine Tibby had her own way of trying to make things "pan out" as they really should, now that this was not, as she, and Tommy and Steena had thought, the end of everything.

Everything was not settled, by any means, since that something had happened that Steena had predicted. Steena, too, had been right—in a way.

Dairy Man Develops 'Steel Recap' Tire

SPRINGFIELD, — (AP) — A "steel recap" has been developed by a Springfield dairy manager to meet the rubber tire crisis and help his transportation problem on milk deliveries.

The "steel recap," devised by H. F. Kohl, consists of a band of steel over a worn out rubber tire, which absorbs the shocks.

Kohl experimented on his heavy duty dairy truck with gratifying results. The dairy manager had a badly worn 6.00X16 truck tire—a tire worn through the breaker strip and two plies of cords. He fashioned a band of soft steel around the tire which was inflated to normal 35 pounds pressure.

Four guide pieces, each one-eighth of an inch thick and two by two and one-half inches, were welded to each side of the steel band at 90 degree intervals. The tread weight 40 pounds.

The "steel recap" was driven uphill, downhill, on roads with plenty of holes and lots of loose gravel and crushed rock, at speeds ranging from 35 to 47 miles an hour. Kohl believes the best speed for the recap is 40 miles per hour.

He said materials cost $3.25 and the welding charges amounted to $9.

"The recap plan has very definite advantages," said Kohl.

"Road shocks are absorbed through the cushion of rubber and air between the wheel and axle and the steel tread. There are no tack punctures or stone bruises. The tread is easily removed by deflating the casing, and repairs can be made by a heavy hammer or by welding, if needed. If the outside bands wear thin, others can be welded on top of them."

A rubber casing and tube should last indefinitely when infinite advantages," said Kohl. The only drawback, he added, would be a shortage of steel.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

Congress is on the pan because it's enacting the laws that make life so expensive. The government's executives simply enforce what congress decrees. The executives' excuse is that they're only obeying orders from overhead. They say they disapprove some of 'em. But they've got no option. They're complying with congressional orders.

However, the executives tell what they want.

If they don't get it, and the war goes wrong, they blame congress.

Taxes—for instance. An income levy's about as oppressive as anything, from the average man's standpoint. Suppose a man's getting a salary between $3,000 and $4,000 annually. He's married and his income tax rate, hitherto, has been between $138 and $249, a substantial wad. The proposal is to boost him to from $308 to $594.

Who wouldn't holler at having about 25 percent taxed out of his yearly pay?

Congress Did It
Oh, yes, it's an emergency, but isn't he liable to think he's disproportionately stung?

If so, congress did it. You see it in every newspaper column, in presidential government is in presidential.

Congressmen are scared. They are the representational end. Next November's elections will give 'em a test.

It'll be a contest between the executive and legislative ends.

It isn't so much Franklin D. Roosevelt who'll be the executive leader. The executive crowd are his official subordinates.

Who is an outstanding executive, independently of the White House?

Well, say Leon Henderson. Ever have any contacts with Leon?

Well, I did when the N. R. A. was in its incipency.

Leon's proposition is that the polloi don't know what's good for it. He means awful well by it, but he doesn't think it has a lick of sense, and wants to do its dictating for its own benefit.

A New Brand
This world's got a new government brand.

There's the new totalitarian kind—Henderson's.

Now it's a world government that these birds are shooting at. What they want is to put their proposition across in November. These critics think that government's a function of a few folk like themselves—Leon and associates.

It's going to be international—economic as well as political.

The idea's to run it by a few folk, like themselves. If you want to understand 'em, you've got to reckon with their philosophy—new world-wide stuff, that may "take" here—not European totalitarianism.

The whole idea is—

Let's stay democratic.

The question is, is this a national representative government or is it something run by a few birds like Leon Henderson and associates?

Wise Kiotian Guild Enjoys Hamburger Fry

One of the most pleasurable meetings of the club calendar, was the one held Tuesday evening by the Wise Kiotian Guild of the First Baptist Church, when they met with Miss Mary Elizabeth Wood for a hamburger fry.

The spacious lawn of the hostess' yard, was an ideal setting for the gay evening affair, and burgers added to the pleasures of the evening. All sorts of dishes, particularly popular with this menu, were arranged on a long table and were greatly enjoyed.

Following the supper, the hostess with her assisting committee, Mrs. Helen Campbell and Miss Mary Jane Townsley, invited the ladies into the home which was refreshingly cool on the hot summer evening, and where their business meeting was conducted.

Mrs. Margaret DeWees Case, a former counselor, was welcomed back in the same capacity.

Miss Mary Jane Townsley presented the program book, the Seed and the Soil, and then the three hostesses who were also on the program committee launched the new program for the year which is on Latin America. This was the most cleverly done in stunts and songs. The group passed out the newly printed programs which were in the form of sombreros, with maps of the two Americas on the side. The theme for the year is "Opportunity is wide, where the Americas are narrow."

Plans were made for the Clinton Associational Guild house party to be held here on June 27-28.

Concluding the program were reports given by Mrs. Case and Miss Wood on the national and state convention held in Cleveland the last week in May.

Young Couple Feted at Party Tuesday Night

A very delightful party was held Tuesday night by employees of the Record-Herald in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Davis (Betty Jane Stewart), who were married on last Saturday, June 6. The party also was a farewell gesture to Mrs. Ervin Van Winkle, who leaves next week to make her home in Kokomo, Indiana.

The party was staged in the club rooms of the office, which had been prettily decorated with many bouquets of flowers. The guests were seated at one long table for the bountiful supper, for which a rose and white color scheme was used. Covered with a white cloth, streamers of deep rose trailed from the corners, crossing in the center, where a gorgeous arrangement of cluster roses were in a lovely crystal basket. The covered dish supper consisted of most delicious foods, and the hour around the table was an exceptionally merry one.

Miss Christine Switzer acted as toastmistress for the affair and made appropriate remarks to all of the honor guests.

A lovely gift was given to Mrs. Van Winkle who made gracious responses and to Mr. and Mrs. Davis, a miscellaneous shower was presented. Mrs. Davis opened the large array of gifts, and voiced her appreciation in her very sweet manner.

Informal visiting completed the evening's pleasures.

Women of Moose

At the last meeting of the Women of the Moose, Mrs. Ruth Johnson, chairman of the sponsors committee, read a carefully prepared paper and also gave a short talk on this phase of the work to be done. Following the program, election of officers was held with Mrs. Ruth Johnson being elected Senior Regent; Marie Kimball, Jr. Regent; Trilby Leeth, graduate Regent; Wilma Thomas, chaplain; Zelma Severs, recorder and Helen Cook, treasurer.

Margaret Walker Circle

The Margaret Walker Circle met at the home of Mrs. A. F. Hopkins on Monday for a pleasurable meeting.

The meeting opened with the devotions by the president, Florence Cook. Letha Jane Robinson read an amusing poem, followed by a lovely solo by Jane Landrum.

The foreign and national topics were given by Mrs. Hopkins, followed by the study lesson by Mrs. J. Roby Oldham.

After adjournment a potluck supper of man good dishes was held and thoroughly enjoyed.

Lions Club Charter Night Held at Washington Country Club on Tuesday Night

Fifty Guests Assemble for Elaborate Dinner Followed By a Dance; District Governor-elect Young Present for Affair

One of the most outstanding events of the week's social calendar was held on Tuesday evening at the Washington Country Club, when the Lions Club held their eighth annual Charter Night party.

It was an ideal night for the very gay and elaborate affair, to which fifty Lions and their ladies were present.

The dinner was served on the big porch where tables were arranged most effectively. The decorated in the club colors of purple and gold, and were pictures of pure beauty. Water gardens of flow'rs featuring the two colors were exquisite and greatly admired. At each ladies' place, were roses, favors of the evening. The dinner was most delicious and the hour a particularly joyous one, with the many pleasures of distinct enjoyment.

The retiring president, Mr. Sam R. Parrett, acted as a most capable toastmaster, and gave a happy welcome to the guests. He then introduced the new officers for the year 1942-43 who are president, John L. Sagar; 1st vice president, W. L. O'Brien; 2nd vice president, Dr. Ray J. Nauss; 3rd vice president, Dr. C. L. Ford; Lion Tamer, Ellet Kaufman; Tail Twister, Andrew Loudner; secretary and treasurer, Harold F. McCord. Mr. Sagar made a few very appropriate remarks.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was the presence of Lion and Mrs. Warren L. Young, of Franklin. Mr. Young is the district governor-elect of District 13C, and added most interesting remarks to the program.

Following the dinner was the dance in the spacious lounge, with music furnished by "Mac" and his band. Groups formed around tables on the porch, chairs were placed on the terrace and in the yard, where they enjoyed the cool breezes from off the golf course, so welcomed on such a hot evening.

Additional guests for the evening were Lion and Mrs. W. C. Macintyre, of Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ferguson, and Mrs. T. V. Ottinger.

PATRIOTISM DANGEROUS IN NORWAY WITH NAZIS AND QUISLINGS THERE

pating in a secret meeting." Two men were shot for "revealing military secrets and possessing arms illegally." At Dronheim four citizens were condemned to death for listening to foreign radio stations and spreading the news they learned. And so on.

Not until the close of the war, perhaps will the world know how many Norwegians have given their lives because they refused to accept Nazism and Quislingism.

The Lutheran bishop of Oslo and his six fellow bishops in other parts of the country resigned in protest against the Quisling regime. Specifically, they objected to the assault upon the dean of Dronheim, Fjellou, whom a mob of Quislingites prevented from delivering his usual Sunday sermon.

Some 9,000 teachers in individual letters resigned in March from the Teachers Federation when it came under Quisling control. Thereby risking cancellation of their pensions, or rights to pensions, and being drafted for compulsory labor.

The rector of Oslo University, Dr. Seip, was carried off to a concentration camp and put in solitary. For 24 days, in the grim camp, he sat in darkness, living on bread and water.

So did also Einar Gerhardsen, chairman of the Norwegian Labor Party, according to reliable information received by the Zurich Zeitung of Zurich, Switzerland. Gerhardsen's "crime" consisted in distributing internee rations too liberally to his fellow prisoners.

The Swiss paper reported the Jensen's Tomatoes for sale at Greenhouses on Lewis St.

concentration camps of Norway generally overcrowded. In one of them was one of 17 judges of the Norwegian Supreme Court who led the protest of the Supreme Court early this year against the Quisling-appointed Department of Justice's naming all jury members without consulting the Supreme Court. His 16 colleagues thereupon resigned and were replaced by Quisling henchmen.

All these measures have not been able to prevent acts of sabotage and other evidence of the populace's disagreement with Quislingism.

Even as Quisling was taking office as would-be dictator on February 1, someone cut the electric wires during the parade of his followers before the Grand Hotel, so that the reviewing party, which only a few moments previously had been floodlighted when it appeared on the balcony of the hotel, was shrouded in darkness.

Two days later there was a fire in the famed National Theater. In the main university building a bomb exploded. There were explosions in both railway stations of the Norwegian capital. A dud landed on the Storting (Parliament) building. One of the great rubber factories at Askim, a motor factory in Bergen and the docks at Lakesvåg were set aflame by unknown saboteurs.

Secret little newspapers sprouted up. Illegal wireless stations started to broadcast facts unwelcome to the Quisling administration.

If Quisling ever had a chance of gradually winning the esteem of the Norwegian people despite his bad start, he lost it when, in his inaugural address as Hitler-appointed Premier of Norway, he declared that Norway could not be a free, sovereign and independent state but must permanently accept German control.

Meanwhile Norway is paying a heavy price for German occupation.

Norwegian circles in Stockholm, according to the Zurich Zeitung, claim that the occupation costs until the middle of January totaled 3.9 billion Norwegian crowns (about $897,000,000 at pre-occupation exchange rates).

This money was used not only for occupation costs but also for completing and improving the German military establishment in Norway, for constructing German fleet and air bases, and for building electro-chemical and metallurgical plants which Germany expects to control.

paycheck, we were told, averaged around $70 a week. In an Ohio city, at a large manufacturing plant for aviation accessories, the average monthly paycheck for workers, skilled and unskilled, is $270.

Out on the wide, rolling plains of the middle west, where a large part of America's wheat crop is produced, war industry has really pinched a number of formerly "small town" communities.

"In this area, ordinance and municipal officials say, the farms and villages are being drained for war work—and it leaves the farms in one hell of a situation, frankly."

The principal reason for locating big factories in this region is not immediately apparent. On first consideration, the casual observer would believe it might be due to difficulty of attack from the air in these centrally-located areas.

But that's not the main reason: It's because the people out there are 100 percent Americans—and mostly third generation!

"The spirit of these workers is so much higher," one plant superintendent told me, "that we don't have to worry about such things as espionage and sabotage. Our workers do our policing for us."

"If one man is at a machine, it slows down the whole production line. But the others before and after him see that he speeds up—otherwise he will not be able to come to work the next day."

There has been a lot of talk about complacency in our war effort. Of all the industrial regions I have visited, I never saw a more "complacent" group than these mid-westerners.

They were doing a good job, and doing it fast. They were also doing it complacently—without unnecessary excitement.

British armored and motorized columns bolstered the Free French garrison in repulsing the attack.

British mobile columns were reported hacking steadily at Rommel's vital supply lines west of the main battle sector around Tobruk.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, June 10.—(P)—

Wheat led one of the strongest rallies in weeks in the grain market today with gains of as much as 2 cents a bushel.

House refusal to accept a Senate provision of the Agriculture Department appropriation bill to permit sale of 125,000,000 bushels of government wheat at prices below parity touched off the buying but on the upturn the market benefitted from support of professional traders who had sold short previously and from other interests. Corn crop complaints from some sections of Iowa, due to too much rain and hail, attracted attention.

Wheat closed 1 1/2-1 3/4 cents higher than yesterday. July 1.18 1/2-1 3/4, Sept. 1.21-1 1/4; corn 3 1/4-1 1/2 higher, July 86 1/4-86 1/2, September 89 1/2; oats 3 1/4-3 1/2 higher; soybeans 1 1/2-1 3/4 up and rye 1-1 1/2c higher.

disclosed that United States-built Baltimore bombers (Glenn Martin 187's) have gone into action in the Libyan desert struggle, executing "daring daylight raids on an Axis airdrome at Barce."

"The bombing was particularly accurate and effective," a communiqué said.

As the battle swirled indecisively under a broiling sun, RAF bombers attacked the big Italian naval base at Taranto for the second successive night.

An Italian communiqué said known casualties totaled 20 killed, 75 injured, and acknowledged that "several fires flared."

On the English Channel front, bad weather kept the RAF's city-destroying offensive against Germany grounded for the third night this month.

In the battle of Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Allied fliers had won a 13-to-2 victory over the Japanese yesterday, registering the greatest bag of enemy fighters ever reported in a single action in the southwest Pacific.

United Nations armies also attacked Japanese-occupied bases in New Guinea and Portuguese Timor, setting big fires.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Equipment in clothing for our American flyers costs about $250 for every aviator, so it takes a lot of money for our rapidly increasing air force. This clothing is especially manufactured of horse-hide jackets and trousers, fleece lined.

The kit also includes a "B-70" which is a complete jacket and trousers zipper suit, also made of horse-hide and is fleece lined. Two pairs of shoes, helmet, goggles and other lesser equipment complete the ensemble. Your purchases of War Bonds, at least ten percent of your income every pay day, will help buy these outfits for our flyers everywhere, for our Army and Navy needs thousands of them.
